ONE of the results of Arkansas' default on her highway obligations is the threatened return of improvement taxes on the lands within the old road districts. Commissioners and landowners are urged to attend a meeting in Little Rock Wednesday, to organize a "protective association."

Bobcats, Nashville Meet Wednesday for Final Contest

Thanksgiving Game Scheduled Here Night Before Holiday

CATS IN FAIR SHAPE

Howard County Eleven Favored, With Win Over Pacerott

With the season's final football game to be played here Wednesday night against Nashville, Coach Jones' Bobcats began preparations for the engagement with a long workout Monday afternoon.

The Bobcat eleven was in high spirits Monday following its last two victories in successive week-end battles against DeQueen and Horatio high schools.

With the exception of a few minor injuries, Coach Jones' rebuilt team, is in fair physical shape. A victory over the Nashville Scrappers would be a big boost to the Bobcats, as Nashville has defeated several strong teams this fall, including Prescott's Curly Wolves.

Although the visitors are favored to win by two or more touchdowns, rivalry between the two schools promises to make the contest interesting.

Nashville has perhaps as formidable a club as any Bobcat team has faced on its current schedule, with the exception of the Trojans of Hot Springs, whom the locals met at their height in power. The Bobcats trailed by one touchdown at the end of that encounter.

Tickets went on sale Monday for students, and may be purchased at the high school building. No student tickets will be sold at the football field, all admissions will be 50 cents, it was announced.

All complimentary passes have been revoked, as the annual game operates on a 50-50 basis from proceeds taken in here and at Nashville. Expenses will be deducted, and the two schools will split the remaining amount.

U. S. Bonds Rally, New York Happy

Financial Outlook Vastly Improved Since Last Thursday

NEW YORK.—(AP)—With the improvement in the market for United States government bonds, Wall Street dealers are now looking for a normal and comparatively simple refunding operation to take care of the treasury's maturities of $728,000,000 falling due December 15.

While there was considerable excitement about this maturity a week ago, when the treasury issues were declining, and "hard money" advocates were wondering whether the government might resort to use of unsecured paper money or "greenbacks," Wall Street is now fairly confident that the operation will be handled in orthodox fashion.

U. S. government bonds have rallied vigorously since last week's selling climax, which came on the heels of the resignation from the treasury of Dr. O. M. W. Sprague with a declaration that the present monetary policy was impairing the government's credit. Since the treasury obligations have regained a substantial part of their losses in the recovery which started last Thursday, dealers now feel that a substantial issue of one-year notes could be sold on a one per cent basis, or a two-year issue on a basis of perhaps a little above two per cent.

Shank Crazy, Says Attorney Opening Case for Defense

"Wholly Insane," Benton Lawyer Declares of Poison Slayer

STATE SHOWS PLOT

Will Charge He Murdered to Protect His Reputation

BENTON, Ark.—(AP)—Mark Shank, Akron (Ohio) attorney, was characterized as "wholly insane" by Nathan McDaniel, of Benton, chief defense counsel, in his opening statement to the jury Tuesday in Shank's trial for the poison murder of Alvin Colley, also of Akron.

McDaniel said the testimony of specialists would show that Shank could not live more than six or eight weeks.

Prosecuting Attorney Miller Halbert said the state would seek only to prove that Shank murdered Colley to protect his reputation in a community where he was a respected citizen and member of a number of societies and clubs.

Jury Completed BENTON, Ark.—(AP)—A jury was selected Tuesday night for the trial of Mark H. Shank, Akron, O., attorney, on one of four charges of murder of which he is accused. A panel of 75 veniremen was examined before the box was filled.

All of the jurors were farmers or rural laborers, and only two or three are middle-aged or past.

Immediately after the jury had been chosen, court was recessed until morning. However, Circuit Judge Thomas E. Talbot, opposing counsel agreed to meet to take up questions of the admissibility of depositions of witnesses from Ohio bearing on the character and sanity of Shank, and records of a Toledo hospital for the insane to show relatives of Shank have been confined there.

Shank's Wife Present Beside Shank sat his cheerful wife throughout the day's session, listening intently to the proceedings and occasionally whispering to him or his counsel. Shank, with eyes closed most of the time, and with his hair falling partially over his face, evidenced little interest in the selection of the jury.

The juryman finally chosen to hear the case were: Anderson Green, Fred (Continued on Page Three)

Dr. Wynekoop Gravely Ill, Say Physicians

Woman Surgeon Repudiates Confession, Charging Police Forced Her

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Physicians at the Cook county jail reported Tuesday that Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, 62, is seriously ill with a severe bronchial cough and an extremely high blood pressure.

The prisoner was described as in danger of pneumonia. Jail physicians said she was in a state of nervous exhaustion because of her ordeal of questioning following the mysterious death of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, whom she is charged with killing.

She Denies Confession CHICAGO.—(AP)—Dr. Alice L. Wynekoop, through her attorney Monday, repudiated her confession that she shot her daughter-in-law after a doctor form had made the girl senseless.

"The words were put into my mouth by those police," Attorney Frank Tyrrell quoted the 62-year-old woman after a conference with her.

Her son, Earle, was formally charged with helping to plot the murder of his wife Rheta, and was locked in the county jail.

"I asked her how she had come to make this ridiculous confession," Tyrrell recounted.

"She replied: 'I don't know. The words were put in my mouth by those policemen. I was without sleep hour after hour while they questioned me.'"

"I then asked her if it was true that she did not do any shooting and she replied: 'No, I didn't shoot anyone.'"

Tyrrell reiterated his declaration that Dr. Alice was not guilty, that police won the confession from her by "bringing her to the point of exhaustion where she would say anything."

The attorney announced no one except himself would be allowed to see Dr. Wynekoop, declaring her health did not permit visitors.

Repeal Opposed on a Technicality

Two Clergymen Object to Proclamation Next Month

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—On petition of Canon William Sheafe Chase, Justice F. D. Letts of the District of Columbia supreme court Monday granted a ruling directing acting Secretary Phillips of the state department to show cause why he should not be restrained from proclaiming repeal of the 18th amendment.

The order is returnable December 4—the day before expected repeal of the national dry law.

Chase, president of the International Reform Federation, was associated in the petition by Rev. George S. Duncan of Washington.

The substance of the complaint by the two clergymen was that the delegates through voting for repeal of the 18th amendment acted in convention in the several states and that they were not given the right of deliberation contemplated by the constitution.

Their petition pointed out that the alternative method of ratification by state legislatures provided ample opportunity for deliberation.

Thanksgiving Day Service at 7 P. M. Here Wednesday

First Baptist Church to Be Host at Union Meeting

RULE WILL SPEAK

Rev. Thomas Brewster to Preside Over Special Service

Hope will observe Thanksgiving day with a union service at 7 o'clock Wednesday night in First Baptist church.

For many years the community has attended a union meeting, alternating between the various churches, usually held, however, on Thursday morning. This year's service is scheduled Wednesday night in the belief many citizens will be able to attend before taking out-of-town trips on the holidays.

The program is starting early, and will allow ample time for worshippers also to attend the Hope-Nashville game that night, another feature of the Thanksgiving season.

The Rev. Thomas Brewster, pastor of First Presbyterian church, will preside at the service, and the Thanksgiving sermon will be delivered by the Rev. E. C. Rule, pastor of First Methodist church.

Citizen Put Faith in His Newspaper

"Sure, What It Says Is True," He Declares in Shank Trial

BENTON, Ark.—Newspapers in general found one staunch defender among the 75 veniremen examined Monday in the selection of a jury for the murder trial of Mark H. Shank.

This prospective juror admitted he had formed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, based upon information obtained from reading the newspaper accounts of the case.

"You don't believe all you read in the newspapers do you?" the court asked.

"Sure I do," the venireman retorted. "I've been reading one all my life, and if I didn't believe what it said, I'd quit subscribing to it."

Judge Toler smiled.

"That's a very fine attitude," he said, "and I'm sure the newspapers appreciate it. However, the supreme court has ruled that an opinion based upon newspaper stories is not sufficient to disqualify a juror."

U. S. Bids Up Gold $2 Above World

Domestic Price $33.85, and Dollar Again Crashes

By the Associated Press The government for the first time in a week Tuesday boosted the price of newly-mined domestic gold 9 cents to $33.85 an ounce—which is 2 over the world price.

Meanwhile, at Warm Springs, Ga., President Roosevelt awaited the arrival of Eugene Black, of the Federal Reserve board, for Thanksgiving day.

The conference is interpreted to foreshadow possible shifts in the government's monetary policy, particularly as it affects the Federal Reserve board's dealings in government securities.

At London, the American dollar slipped to $5.20½ to the British pound, against par $4.86½, and against the dollar's high of $4.20 when Britain went off the gold standard.

Dyess Replies to Caraway Criticism

Didn't Give Patronage to Senator Because Politics Is "Out"

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Declaring that his instructions were not to play politics in putting men to work under the Civil Works Administration program, W. R. Dyess, state director, Tuesday replied to Senator Hattie W. Caraway's criticism that he had not consulted with her before making appointments.

From a Washington report in the Arkansas Democrat came Senator Caraway's statement that when in Washington, he failed to call on her to inform her of his findings at CWA headquarters, or to consult with her or Senator Joe T. Robinson about appointments.

The Baltimore Sun says the soldiers were sent to arrest nine alleged participants in last month's lynching at Princess Anne.

The mobilization of the troops, according to the Sun, is the governor's answer to State's Attorney John B. Robins who has refused to arrest the nine men whom state police officers have identified as participating in last month's lynching at Princess Anne.

When notified that the troops were coming, Robins said:

"I have nothing to say about it." Time and time again Robins was asked to have made the arrests, asked by Attorney General William Preston Lane Jr., and the governor. It was Lane who gathered the affidavits of state troopers, who were swept away by the lynching mob.

The lynching of George Armwood, the negro, occurred on the night of October 18, when a mob of more than 1,000 men, women and youths, attacked the Princess Anne jail, drove back a small detail of state police on guard there and dragged the negro from his cell.

Rolph Defends Lynchings SACRAMENTO, Calif.—(AP)—Governor Rolph said Monday the lynching in San Jose Sunday night of Thomas Thurmond and John Holmes, confessed kidnapers and slayers of Brooke Hart, should result in fewer kidnappings.

Movie Code Bans Excessive Salary

F. D. R. Signs It—Cantor Suggests Royalty Basis of Payment

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed the code placing the mighty motion picture industry under the NRA Monday night with appointment of an authority to guide the business and ban "excessive salaries" during a 90-day period.

He named Miss Marie Dressler and Eddie Cantor, well known actors, as members of the code authority, he accepted the recommendation of General Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, against federal censorship, but named A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard University, as a member of the code authority to watch the observance by the industry of its own censorship rules.

Without naming the limit on salaries, the president called for a full report within 30 days on "salaries or other emoluments in the industry, both as to artists and as to executives and their families."

Writers and dramatists were exempted from the salary rule.

In response to questioning, Johnson said that Eddie Cantor had suggested the idea to put actors on a royalty basis.

Mr. Roosevelt also signed twenty other codes brought here by General Johnson. The others were for the following industries: investment bankers, woolen felts, malleable iron, radio broadcasting, gas appliances, structural clay products, waterproofing caulking and concrete floors, warm air furnaces, chinaware and porcelain, cigar container manufacturers, precious jewelry, cement, concrete masonry, vitrified clay sewer pipes, machine tool and distribution, upholsteries and draperies, re-enforcement tools and retail jewelers.

Maryland Troops Back Off Crowd With Gas Bombs

4 of 9 Mob Leaders at Princess Anne Are Arrested

GOVERNOR, VICTOR

Meanwhile, California Stands Pat on Kidnaper Lynchings

SALISBURY, Md.—(AP)—Tear-gas bombs were hurled by state militia Tuesday when a crowd of 400 men, apparently incensed at the arrest of four members of the Princess Anne lynch mob, advanced on the state armory.

Firemen were called out when the tear-gas failed to keep the crowd back.

Several shots were fired, but none was wounded and the situation was reported well in hand by the commanding officer in a report later delivered to Governor Ritchie at Annapolis. It was not ascertained immediately who fired the shots.

The troops departed before noon on their return trip to Baltimore, carrying their four prisoners with them.

By the Associated Press Governors of two widely-separated states took opposite stands Tuesday in dealing with lynchings while the interest of virtually the whole nation was at a high pitch.

From his sick-bed at Annapolis, Governor Ritchie of Maryland ordered a picked battalion of National Guardsmen to arrest five men alleged to be members of a band that lynched a negro at Princess Anne, Md., last month.

In California, Governor Rolph promised to pardon anyone convicted of the lynching of two confessed slayer-kidnapers of Brooke Hart.

Governor Ritchie acted after the state's attorney of Somerset county refused to take action against the alleged lynchers.

Soldiers Leave Baltimore BALTIMORE, Md.—(AP)—The Fifth regiment of the Maryland National Guard early Tuesday morning left Baltimore headed toward Somerset county.

The Baltimore Sun says the soldiers were sent to arrest nine alleged participants in last month's lynching at Princess Anne.

The mobilization of the troops, according to the Sun, is the governor's answer to State's Attorney John B. Robins who has refused to arrest the nine men whom state police officers have identified as participating in last month's lynching at Princess Anne.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Quick, Watson, the gag is Washington's latest cry. It's a hush on this and that. Friends of New Deal are worried over Administration's policy of putting on the gag.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—That hush-hush policy which has been cropping out here and there in the administration worries some of the New Deal's warmest friends.

Censorship, suppressed, gag rule—these are the words which are being used to describe the hush-hush policy which has been cropping out here and there in the administration.

Calmer officials, more philosophic, think it's too bad. Some regard it as a sign of weakness.

Irritation over "leaks" has been evident in the emergency agencies for many weeks, especially in the NRA, Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and Public Works Administration.

Secretary Ickes and Solicitor Margolis of the Justice Department imposed a gag rule to prevent subordinate officials from talking to newspapermen. The order was rescinded after vigorous protest.

Lid Jammed On
President Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins began to play up pleasant figures and play down disagreeable ones. An order went out restricting the interpretation of statistics to the New Central Statistical Board, threatening the usefulness of some of government publications.

First result came sensationally when the Federal Reserve Board abandoned its monthly analysis of business and financial conditions.

Then Acting Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., ordered treasury officials to give no information to newspapermen. News, views, and interpretations must come from him or his publicity agent. He denies, however, that this is censorship.

All of which appears to have Mr. Roosevelt's approval. No one knows how far it's going to go.

YOUR CHILDREN

Problems of Children Who Bolt Classes

What happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable force? What happens when the law says a boy must stay in school and he won't stay in school?

Something, we may be sure, in the way of trouble.

When I say "Won't stay in school" I don't mean that he actually won't go, stay all day, come home at four o'clock. I mean that he won't stay on any other terms but his own.

He knows nothing can be done about it. Compulsory education shoves him in the front door and slams it. He hates school and everything about it, but if the law hauls him in by the collar he's going to enjoy himself as much as he can and his idea of a good time isn't studying, behaving, or anything else.

Fortunately the percentage of actual rebels is very small. True, there are many in spirit, but as a rule they conform outwardly at least and that is a relief to every one.

Teacher's Problem

Now the problem, I think, is not so much that of the boy as about his teacher. Every day there must be teachers who lay their weary heads on their desks after school and wonder what the answer is.

Bill, we'll say, is such a boy. He is demoralizing the whole room. If he was just plain mischievous or bored or discouraged, his teacher would find him the depths of her experience some way to reach him. But he is the veriest outlaw in every respect.

She had done everything—sent for his mother, talked to the principal, coaxed, bribed, and even desperately threatened.

"You can't do anything," he says. "You can't put me out. We pay taxes you have to let me come to school." She knows he is right. Nothing like old-time expulsion to hold over his head.

So he's coming right along and the other forty-nine children are losing time, and other priceless things by the daily sparring.

"I have known more than one schoolroom to be completely demoralized for a term by one boy, or as it so often happens, two. For usually there is a Man Friday.

Suggested Solutions

Corporal punishment is past tense in most places. That's all right, too, because the teacher is there to teach and not play hangman. She doesn't want it. All she wants is peace so she can go ahead and do her work. She doesn't want to play jailer either, keeping children in after school and herself in, too.

So what is to be done? Utopia isn't here yet. The time may come when each child will be so interested in what school offers there will be no recalcitrants seeking reprisal by misbehavior.

One suggestion is to remove the disciplinary department from the teaching department and to have a superintendent of justice, let us call her, or him, an officer to interpret the law for both parent and teacher. Such a point of contact might settle many disputes that are now an endless source of friction between home and school. School ethics and constructive planning would be its work.

one a week right at home.

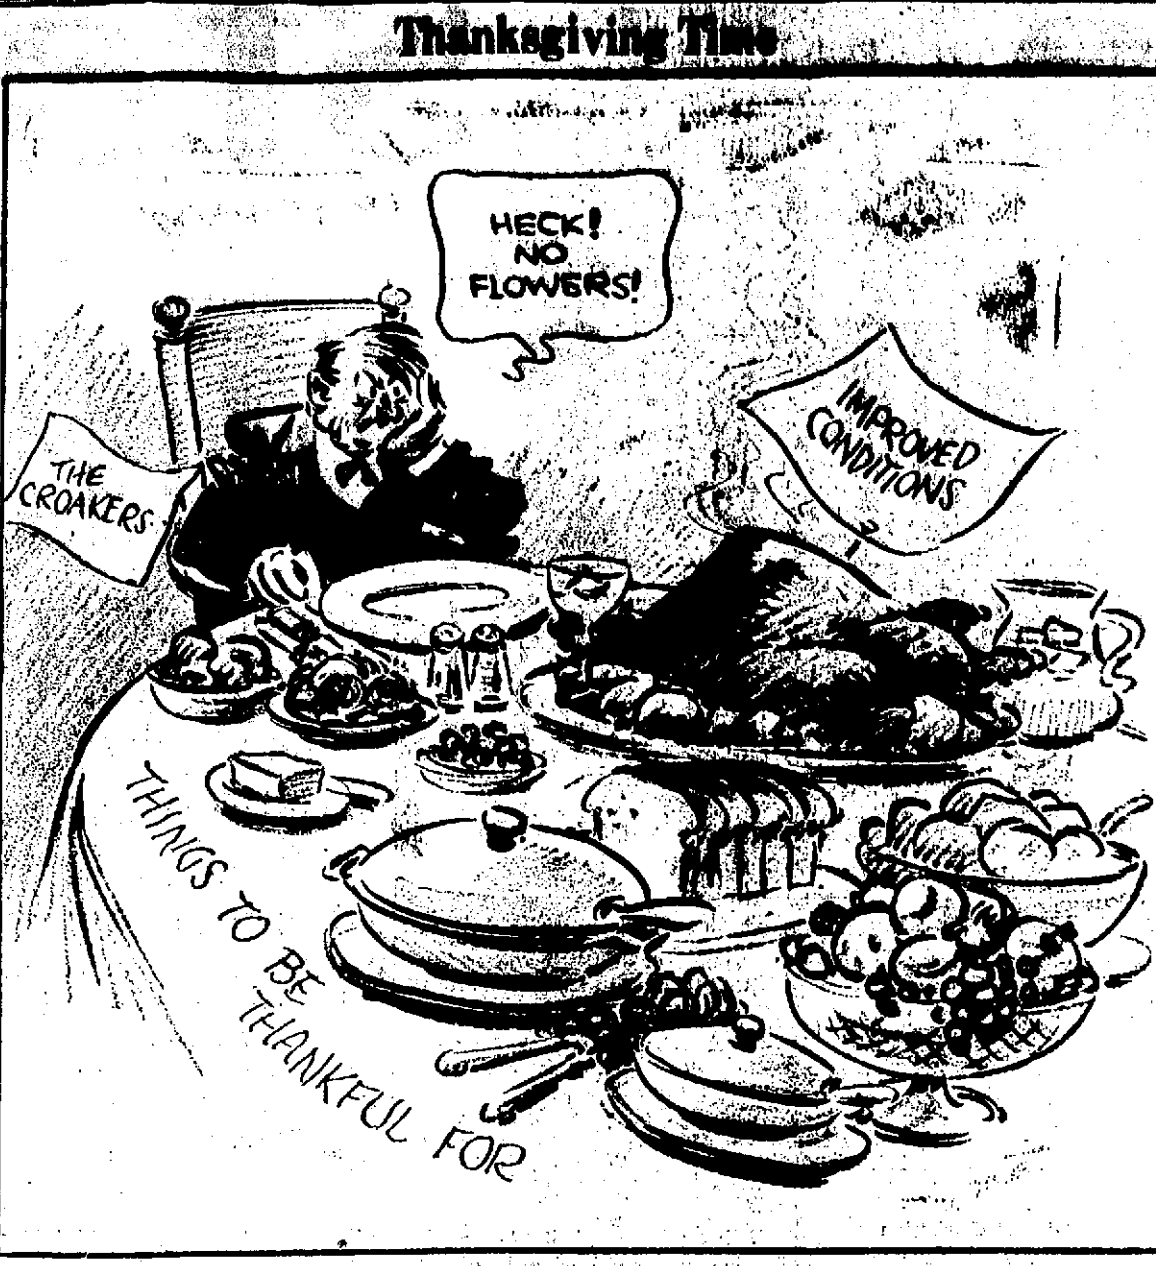

Clean your face and neck with cleansing cream. Wipe off all dirt. Apply a thick nourishing cream and pat the skin until it tingles all over. Wipe it off and put on either a skin tonic or a mild astringent. Then you are ready for the ice water tie-up.

Dip several large pieces of cotton in ice water. One of the pieces should have a large hole in it. That piece goes across your mouth.

If you feel that you must see, put two smaller holes in another piece which is to go across your eyes. However, it is better to keep the eyes covered so that they, too, may derive full benefit from the cold cotton mask. Be sure and look pleasant while you are "setting" your face in this manner.

Put one piece across your forehead and another around your throat. Cover every inch of your face and neck with the cold pads. Then take a long strip of gauze—about five inches wide—and place it under your chin. Bring the ends up to the top of your head and tie them firmly. Rub the gauze with a piece of ice for several minutes and then lie down to relax. Don't remove the mask until it is warm.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment? DAVID BANNISTER, a detective, is searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King shortly before his death. Bannister has seen this girl, but she has disappeared since.

TRACY KING, a handsome, well-known singer, was found dead in his apartment. He was a popular figure in the city. Bannister, a detective, is searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King shortly before his death. Bannister has seen this girl, but she has disappeared since.

CHAPTER XVII

CAPTAIN OLIVER MCNEAL brought the front legs of his chair to the floor with a resounding whack. "Well!" he exclaimed. "Will you look who's here?"

Bannister grinned from the doorway. "Hello, Cap," he said. "Hope you don't mind callers." J. Randolph Galney, just behind, edged into the room and slumped into the nearest chair.

McNeal was on his feet now. "Davey, my lad!" he said, grasping Bannister's hand. "I thought you were in California! I thought you were away making a big name for yourself. What in blazes do you mean, turning up in my office? Looking fine, you are."

"And you're looking terrible," Bannister told him, well aware that this was the proper answer. "Well, Cap, I'm back on the job. Understand you've got a little murder case on. Getting a little slow on your feet, aren't you, letting 24 hours go by without bringing in the guilty person?"

"Back on the job?" McNeal eyed him dubiously. "You mean you're working for the Post again?"

"That's it," Bannister told him. "Uh-huh!" McNeal grunted. "That's different!" He scowled. "Thought we'd got rid of you, once and for all. What'd you want to come back here for?"

"Don't take it too hard," Bannister urged, still grinning. "You see, it isn't permanent. Jim Paxton told me he was short-handed and I agreed to go to work for him for a while. Wanted to see just how slow you and your staff of gunshockers will be clearing up this murder."

McNeal dropped back in his chair. "Just as much lip as ever," he announced, shaking his head. But there was admiration in the blue eyes raised to Bannister's. Admiration and liking. The exchange of mild insults meant merely that Captain McNeal and David Bannister were old friends.

BANNISTER seated himself on the edge of the desk. McNeal, he thought, looked exactly as he had six years before. He wore a felt hat and a blue suit—the same sort of hat and the same sort of suit he had always worn. His hair was no grayer. The gray hair

LIFE

Life is a gift to be used every day. Not to be smothered and hidden away. It isn't a thing to be stored in the chest.

Where you gather your keepsakes and treasure your best. It isn't joy to be sipped now and then and promptly put back in a dark place again.

Life is a gift that the humblest may boast of.

Get out and live it each hour of the day.

When it and use it as much as you may.

You'll find that in service its beauty improves.—Selected.

Mrs. Paul Kizer will have as Thanksgiving guests, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Varner and two daughters, Katherine and Lois of Sherman, Texas.

Miss Rebecca Norton of Little Rock spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Norton.

Among the many beautiful pre-nuptial parties being given for the pleasure of Miss Bertha McRae, was the shower given on Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Roy Stephenson and Miss Cornelia Whitehurst at the home of the former on West Sixth street.

Gorgeous white chrysanthemums, the queen of autumn flowers were used profusely in vases and floor baskets throughout the rooms, where three tables were arranged for bridge with the honoree's place marked with a huge bow of white tulle, the tallies and hand painted designs emphasizing the bridal motif. The high score favor went to Miss Eleanor Foster, and at the close of the game, the honoree drawings and all the sound recording was measured likewise.

After completing the English version, French and Spanish versions of the film were made. This was a comparatively simple job, requiring only the changing of the sound track with the dialogue spoken in either French or Spanish instead of English.

Denies Million Profit

"I wish you would correct the impression that I have netted a million dollars on 'Three Little Pigs'." Disney asked me, after he had finished his detailed account of how the picture was made. "True, the film has had a tremendous response from the public, far beyond even my wildest dreams."

"But don't forget that it was sold as a part of the 'Silly Symphony' series early in the year. And it cost $20,500 to make it."

"Right now we have 400 prints of the picture playing throughout the United States. And we are getting additional revenue from return engagements of which we have had quite a number."

"A good many theaters have played it for four weeks or more. And the Filmarte Theater here ran it for eight weeks. But the profits aren't going to be anything like $1,000,000."

LYNCHERS ARE

ings throughout the country, and that he would pardon any one arrested for the lynchings.

"That was a fine lesson to the whole nation," Governor Ralph said. "There will be less kidnapping in the country now. They made a good job of it."

"If anyone is arrested for the good job I'll pardon them all. I hope this will serve in every state of the union."

The governor postponed his trip to Boise, Idaho, to attend a conference, not for the purpose of being on hand to call out troops to prevent it.

"If I had gone away someone would have called out the troops on me," the governor said, "and I promised in Los Angeles I would not do that. Why should I call out troops to protect those two fellows?"

"People Make Laws"

"The people makes the laws, don't they?" He asked. "Well, if the people have confidence that troops will not be called out to protect themselves against kidnappers there is liable to be swifter justice and fewer kidnappings."

"I don't think they will arrest anyone for the lynchings," the governor continued.

"With all the sorrows we have had why should we add the sorrows of kidnapping? It is about time the people should have comfort in their homes. This kidnapping business has become so bad that mothers and fathers are afraid to let their children out of their homes."

"Look at the Lindbergh case. Kidnappers have taken little children, killed them and then jockeyed for huge sums of money. Now they have taken to kidnapping men and women for the purpose of extracting money from distracted relatives."

SHANK CRAZY

Garrett, Virgil James, E. J. Ulmer, E. M. Banks, B. G. Vandergriff, Ed Bowen, C. J. Davis, J. D. Grogan, B. W. Jarman, Marvin Pruett and J. R. Haynes.

Most of those excused had fixed opinions on the case.

Shank, attired in a neatly pressed blue suit with a blue topcoat he kept on throughout the day in a packed court room, was called to trial first on an indictment charging him with the murder of Alvin Cooley, also of Akron, who with his wife and two sons, Clement and Clarence, eleven and seven respectively, drank fatal draughts of poison in woods near here last August.

After proceedings were well under way, 4-year-old Clyde Colley, only surviving member of the family, was brought to the court room by Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Thompson, of Malvern, Ark., who are seeking to adopt him. They took seats beside the counsel table and at one time the boy also drank of grapejuice allegedly poisoned by Shank, but responded to hospital treatment, was directly across the table from Shank.

The accused attorney, however, did not look up, but Mrs. Shank, who remained in good spirits throughout, stole an occasional glance at the child.

Defense Motion Is Lost

At the opening of court, the defense moved to quash the indictment on grounds that Shank was in jail at Little Rock when the grand jury which indicted him was impaneled and thus had no opportunity to object to the panel. Judge Toler overruled the motion and also a demurrer after which selection of the jury started.

The defense gave no intimation in court of a previously announced plan of offering a plea of insanity, although Shank's attorneys were understood to have depositions and records intended to support such a plea ready to introduce.

The state is asking the death penalty.

Hot Springs police were here as state witnesses prepared to refute the charge of Shank that confession to the quadruple slaying was forced from him through third degree methods.

"In this confession, Shank was quoted as saying he poisoned Cooley and his family because Cooley had attempted to blackmail him in connection with the theft of papers from the prosecuting attorney's office at Wooster, Ohio, for which Cooley was sought at the time of the slaying."

Slow progress made in the selection of the jury indicated the trial would require three or four days.

Villa's Daughter Lives in Want

Jobless and penniless, Celia Villa, pretty 18-year-old daughter of Pancho Villa, once rebel terror of Mexico, has been revealed living in obscurity in El Paso, Tex., with an uncle. Reared in luxury and educated by private tutors, she was left nothing of the vast wealth of her father when he was slain in 1923. Celia is a radiant, brown-eyed brunet.

turning from the White House conference at which 40 women leaders considered the problem of America's unemployed women.

Decided emphasis was placed upon the necessity of helping unemployed women in overcrowded fields to develop new techniques. In answer to this need Mrs. Bowman pledged business and professional women throughout the country to co-operate with local relief agencies by giving information regarding their own fields of unemployed women to the end that they may be prepared for reabsorption into the business world.

It is understood that ten outstanding business women, recently appointed by Mrs. Bowman to act as chairmen of national committees, will help to guide the work. They are Miss Josephine Schain of New York City; Carol Willis Hyatt of Chicago, Illinois; Dr. Minnie L. Maffett of Dallas, Texas; Dr. Grace H. Beardsley of Baltimore, Maryland; Miss Mary Stewart of Washington, D. C.; Miss Marion H. McClench of Ann Arbor, Michigan; Miss Rose Gilman of Boise, Idaho; Mrs. Rose E. Cunningham of Des Moines, Iowa; Miss Margaret Stewart of Ogden, Utah, and Dean M. Beatrice Olsen of Grand Forks, North Dakota.

Arkansas Meets Tulsa Thursday

Final of Season for Southwestern Conference Champions

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—With the Southwest Conference championship in their possession, the University of Arkansas Razorbacks will seek honors outside the loop in their last game of the season with the University of Tulsa at Tulsa Thursday. Inspired by their 20 to 6 victory over the University of Texas last week, the Razorbacks expect to give the Golden Hurricane a real battle.

For the first time since the opening of the season, the Razorbacks the going through a week of practice without scrimmage drills on their schedule. Coaches Fred Thomsen and Glen ose are spending the entire practice periods attempting to build defenses against at least six Tulsa formations.

A special train will carry the Arkansas band and several hundred students to Tulsa to see three Razorbacks in their last intercollegiate football game. Tom Murphy, star quarterback, Joe Biddle, hard-hitting fullback, and Captain Lewie Johnson, end, will conclude their varsity football careers against Tulsa.

Biddle will not appear in the starting lineup and may not get into the game at all because of a dislocated shoulder resulting from the Texas game. John Mensel, regular tackle, will be on the bench with a leg injury, and Clark Jones is still suffering from an old hurt.

Tom Murphy, all-conference quarterback who was held out of the Hendrix game two weeks ago and who played less than five minutes against Texas because of a bad ankle, is expected to be back in form against Tulsa.

To Permit Vote on State Playoff

President Mann Says Schools Must Request It Officially

EL DORADO, Ark.—If a sufficient number of high school executives will express to him their desire for a poll among the schools of the state to establish a play-off which would decide the football championship this season, L. F. Mann of Newport, president of the Arkansas Athletic Association, will issue the call for the vote, he told the El Dorado Daily News over long-distance telephone Monday.

Mr. Mann said that he has had numerous requests for the play-off from coaches, fans and newspaper writers, but that, before he can be influenced by such expressions, the requests must come from school executives who are members of the association.

At first he said that about 100 of the approximately 250 members of the association would have to express that desire for the poll, but later said that a small number, provided it is general over the state, will be sufficient.

Dr. C. E. Dicken, superintendent of El Dorado schools, said that he will be the first to ask Mr. Mann to call for the vote. Dr. Dicken will make his request Tuesday.

Church War Continues

BERLIN (AP)—Thousands of insurgent protesters were shut out in the rain Monday night as the Nazi church leadership went back on its promise of non-interference and tried to force the abandonment of two opposition mass meetings.

In an effort to check the spread of the opposition movement throughout the reich, Nazi Christians refused to permit insurgents to use the evangelical cathedral and the old garrison church for scheduled meetings.
